ITEM 8. Methods of Analysis:

CAUTION:
INVESTING IN ALTERNATIVE FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS
INVOLVES RISK OF LOSS

Private Placement Markets, LLC must explain the material risks involved for each significant investment opportunity for which it is an underwriter, as well as the method of analysis used for its underwriting method, with more detail if those risks are significant or unusual (i.e., not otherwise apparent from reading this brochure).

Private Placement Markets, LLC follows an “open architecture” approach to underwriting Alternative Debt and/or Equity Investments. Though underwriting will differ based on the needs of the QIB or Issuer, Private Placement Markets, LLC’s goal is to underwrite debt or equity investments that generate strong risk-adjusted returns and are consistent with the stated objectives and risk tolerance of the QIB. To create consistency for our QIBs, we narrow the scope of investment opportunities for each QIB down to the market segments that Private Placement Markets, LLC feels offer the best options with certain asset classes to the QIB. This process allows a level of due diligence to be performed on all Investments being underwritten for the QIB.

Types of Risks that Private Placement Markets, LLC Underwrites for:

Private Corporate Debt Securities	Higher Risk than an Exchange Listed Corporate Bond, Generally Nanocap or Microcap Companies with Limited Operating History and Limited assets and revenues, May Lose Entire Amount, Not Covered by SIPC

Many of the debt & equity investments underwritten by Private Placement Markets, LLC have certain risks that are borne by the QIB. Private Placement Markets, LLC's debt & equity underwriting approach constantly keeps the risk of loss in mind. QIBs face the following investment risks.

- Interest-Rate Risk – Fluctuations in interest rates may cause investment prices to fluctuate. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline.
- Market Risk – The price of a security may drop in reaction to tangible and intangible events and conditions. This type of risk is caused by external factors independent of a security's particular underlying circumstances. For example, political, economic and social conditions may trigger market events.
- Inflation Risk – When any type of inflation is present, a dollar today will not buy as much as a dollar next year, because purchasing power is eroding at the rate of inflation.
- Currency Risk – Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment's originating country. This is also referred to as exchange risk.
- Reinvestment Risk – This is the risk that future proceeds from investments may have to be reinvested at a potentially lower rate of return (i.e. interest rate). This primarily relates to fixed income investments.
- Business Risk – These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil-drilling companies depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process, before they can generate a profit. These companies carry a higher risk of profitability than an electric company, which generates its income from a steady stream of customers who buy electricity no matter what the economic environment is like.
- Liquidity Risk – Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. Generally, assets are more liquid if many traders are interested in a standardized product. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not.

- Financial Risk - Excessive borrowing to finance a business' operations increases the risk of the profitability, because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.

ITEM 18: Private Placement Markets (an overall Private Placement Markets - market commentary / Updated March 22nd, 2020 – Not a Reflection of the Operations of the Private Placement Debt Markets or the Private Placement Equity Markets, but as an industry as a whole – updated once a year):

The Private Placement Markets Complete an Impressive Decade of Growth. Private Placement Markets Assets Under Management (AUM) grew by 10 percent in 2019, and by $4 Trillion USD in the past decade, an increase of 170 percent, while the number of active private equity (PE) firms has more than doubled and the number of U.S. sponsor-backed companies has increased by 60 percent. Over the same period, Global Public AUM has grown by roughly 100 percent, while the number of U.S. publicly traded companies has stayed roughly flat (but is down nearly 40 percent since 2000).

The Fundraising Outlook Remains Favorable. The early prognosis for the remainder of 2020 is for continued strength: by the end of 2019, large firms had announced targets collectively approaching $350 Billion USD, more than at year-end of 2018. Further, limited partners (LPs) continue to raise their target allocations to Private Placement Markets. Even at current levels, LPs appear to be under-allocated versus target levels by more than $500 Billion USD in Private Equity alone – as much as the global amount raised for Private Equity in 2019.

Some 57% of Private Placement Markets – Market Participants (QIBs) surveyed by Market Coordinators of Private Placement Debt & Equity Markets Worldwide - think the economy has reached a cyclical peak, while 14% think it has already entered a recession. They are also significantly more worried about geopolitical conditions than they were a year earlier. Overall, these concerns about market stability help explain why their No. 1 source of anxiety (70% of respondents) is overheated asset valuations.

Despite the somber macroeconomic outlook from the recent Global Coronavirus Pandemic, Private Placement Markets investing activity is not showing much signs of slowing down. Private Placement Market Investors and Fund Managers currently active in the Debt and Equity Markets have continued to make deals on the Primary Markets, find exits on the Secondary Markets and raise even more capital than ever (though through fewer funds), fueled by enthusiasm from the vastly developing Private Placement Markets.
